UTAH – CLIMATE

The climate of Utah is generally semiarid to arid. Temperatures are favorable along the Wasatch Front, where there are relatively mild winters. At Salt Lake City, the normal daily mean temperature is 52°F (11°C), ranging from 28°F (–2°C) in January to 78°F (26°C) in July. The record high temperature, 117°F (47°C), was set at St. George on 5 July 1985; the record low temperature, –69°F (–56°C), in Peter's Sink, on 1 February 1985. The average annual precipitation varies from less than 5 in (12.7 cm) in the west to over 40 in (102 cm) in the mountains, with Salt Lake City receiving 16.5 in (42 cm) per year during the period (1971–2000). The annual snowfall is about 59 in (150 cm) and remains on the higher mountains until late summer.

- Natural History Museum of Utah- Salt Lake City, UT
- Go for the great views of the valley, for the great exhibits, for the lovely cafe, for a great place to learn about the natural world. There are many, many dinosaurs and ice age fossils on display. The walkway along the display is multi-leveled, so you are able to view the dinosaurs from below, eye-level and above. That makes for great photography, as well. There is also a sauropod skeleton on display. Because of their great length, you are rarely able to view one at a museum. Besides the dinosaur exhibit, there are many other exhibits within the museum. If you're looking for a fun interesting day, this is the place to come!
- Corona Arch- Moab, UT
- Fun hike that goes through different terrains and inclines. The arch is worth the hike though there will probably be a group of people if you go in the afternoon. Some will be repelling off of the arch so shoot for morning and evening if you want just pictures of the arch!
- Canyonland National Park-Moab, UT
- An amazing park with great hiking areas and beautiful views. You will be snapping photos every mile! There are some great picnic areas here as well. You may want to pack a lunch because to truly enjoy some of the hiking available you'll want to stay more than a couple of hours.
- Deer Valley Resort- Park City, UT
- Deer Valley Resort is a skiers only resort located in the historic mining town of Park City, Utah. Rated the number #1 ski resort in North America for an remarkable FIVE years running by the readers of SKI Magazine, we never stop striving to better our guests' experience. We offer complete vacation experiences from planning and vacation rental services through our Lodging & Reservations department to ski school, on mountain dining and summer concerts and chairlift activities.
- Park City Museum- Park City, UT
- Discover Park City's history at the Park City Museum on Historic Main Street. Prospectors discovered silver in 1868 in the area that soon after became Park City. Mine owners made fortunes, while thousands of miners simply made a living. After silver prices declined, Park City reinvented itself as a ski resort town. Interactive displays tell the Park City story in an engaging manner. Fun for the whole family! Open 7 days a week (Mon-Sat 10-7, Sun 12-6).
- Rosenbrunch Wildlife Museum- St. George, UT
- This is a hidden gem in Saint George. There are lots and lots of different specimens around the museum, including a giraffe! The animals are mounted in their natural habitats, which is one of the reasons that many love this museum. Rosenbrunch Wildlife Museum has one of the best and largest collections of ruminants in the West. Yet, the museum is a small enough facility that you can make it a quick visit too.
- Kanab Trailhead- Kanab, UT
- Well-graded trail provides hikers a close-up look of the geology, plant and animal life along the Utah and northern Arizona border region. The Trailhead is a neat gem, leading you into a lovely hiking region that changes with the weather so it is constantly fascinating. The cost is $6 per adult. It is only a short 1.5 mile walk down to the beautiful canyon. Don't go if there if it is raining or if there is a chance of rain because the trail becomes slippery and dangerous.
- Vernal Fall-Vernal, UT
- A 1.6 mile round trip hike with an elevation gain of a modest 400 feet. The trail up to the falls follows the Merced River and is a "10" for beauty the entire way. The sign at the bottom of the trail says, "Moderate," but it becomes steep at times. You will need to stay hydrated and take a bottle or two of water with you...this is very important during the late spring and summer months! You will want to take a camera to capture the beauty of the falls!
